

PUBLICATION AUTHENTICITY POLICY – GHOSTWRITING PREVENTION

In line with the standards for scientific journals, set by the Ministry of Science and Higher Education, the editorial staff of the “Problems of Agricultural Economy” requests the Authors to provide information on entities contributing to the preparation of a publication (substantive, physical, financial contributions, etc.). The Authors of papers should clearly and reliably present results of their works, whether they are direct authors, or whether they used help of a specialised entity (natural or legal person).

Ghostwriting is a situation when someone contributed to the preparation of a publication, but the person was not credited as one of the authors or the role of such a person was not mentioned in the acknowledgments to the publication.

Guest authorship is a situation when the contribution of the author is slight or none at all, but they are credited as the author/co-author of the publication.

To prevent such unwanted practices the Editorial Team of the “Problems of Agricultural Economics” applies the following rules:

1. Authors of publications should inform about the contribution of individual persons in the preparation of the publication (giving affiliations and stating contributions, i.e. information about who is the author of the concept, assumptions, methods, protocol, etc., used in preparing the publication), keeping in mind that the person submitting the paper is primarily responsible for provision of the data.
2. If ghostwriting and guest authorship are identified, the Editorial Team documents such case and informs the institution of Author's affiliation, teams and scientific communities the Author is associated with.
3. If the research used in the publication was co-financed, the Author has to inform about the source of funding.
